Welcome to Broadlawns Polk County Hospital and School of Nursing. In this PULSE of 1967 we have tried to present the people of the hospital and the school, and to include the joys, the fun, and the accomplishments of these people. Perhaps in the years to come you can return to 1967 through these pages. We hope you will enjoy this yearbook.

Sincerely yours,

HOSPITAL LIFE

Administration

The Board of Trustees, Department Heads and Hospital Staff, the medical house doctors and attending physicians extend warmest congratulations to the senior nurses graduating in the Class of 1967.

We have been enriched by knowing and working with you and we are proud as you attain the goal of becoming a registered nurse. We have shared your joys, frustrations and triumphs as you have progressed from a bewildered freshman to a secure and confident senior.

We sincerely trust you will recall your days of education and maturity at Broadlawns with the same warmth of feeling that all of us here regard each of you seniors in the Class of 1967.

Sincere best wishes,
Charles C. Ingersoll, M.H.A.
Administrator

The Hospital and Its People

Coffee time medicine.

Happiness is a newborn babe.

Tag. You're it!

Welcome to the lab.

Mrs. Knop - Outpatient Clinics.

Anyone for a Bloody Mary?

No. This is not the ward clerk.

Keep smiling.

My turn to scrub.

And this is my bottle collection.

Gee, this chair is cramped.

Tomorrow's payday!

Hard at work.

Small, isn't it?

Our man, Tim.

Makes medicine worthwhile.

Listen! The boys must be back.

I wonder if anyone reads this besides me?

Only three more minutes till coffee.

Welcome to Men's Medicine.

Alright! Twice around the block.

Were the results good?

Dear Mom,

There's that kid with the camera again.

Roof leaks.

One big happy family.

Moonlight painter.

Bashful.

If I ignore him, he'll stop kicking.

One patient. Do you think we can handle it?

Grin and bear it.

Broadlawns Hospital Guild

We are fortunate to have a fine Guild Program. These ladies donate their services and help to provide, in many ways, extra services to the patients. They also operate the Gift Shop, Snack Shop, Thrift Shop and the Sundry Cart. Profits from these enterprises are donated to the hospital in forms of equipment, supplies and services of all types. They have also provided for students an opportunity to further their education through scholarships. At Christmas time the students have always been generously remembered with many nice gifts.

Mental Health Volunteers

This group of women freely give of their time and efforts to assist the occupational therapists in their work. They offer encouragement and hope to the mentally disturbed patient.

We pledge our thanks, to the Ladies in blue.

Advisory Committee to the School of Nursing

This Committee, comprised of some of the most prominent men and women in the community, is very interested in the school. Marilee Fredericks, Ph.D. is chairman of the group. The sub-committees and their chairmen are as follows:

By-laws - George Huff, Ph.D.
Liaison - Alice Hanrahan
Nominations - Clinton Davis, D.D.S.
Program - K.D. Nicholson
Scholarships - Perry Greenwood
Recruitment - Lewis McNurlen
Public Relations - Gordon Gammack

Students attend one of the five yearly dinner meetings and meet later for discussion, which both groups find informative and interesting.

Alumni Association

Since all the members of the group were students here at one time, they are deeply and sincerely interested in the students. They provide a delicious supper once a year and also are extremely generous at Christmas. Their interest in the school and the students is greatly appreciated.

HOSPITAL PRAYERS

The words "God help me" often
Seep out of every kind of person
On every hospital ward.
As a mother first hears the cry of
Her babe, she joyfully weeps, "God help me to raise
Him in Thy way."

And at the same time a beggar means
And sighs, "God help me to bear this Pain, take me fast."

While on the next floor a small child
Gasps and wails, "God help me to live."

And next door a teenager cries, "God
Help me - give me a new face."

And a student nurse whispers, "God help me bear this death I'm about to see."

And a pastor prays, "God help me to Show them the way."

And on an operating table a patient
Cries, "God help me live - I'll do
the rest."

But sure, resigned, and fully aware,
A Nurse softly says - "God it's
In Your hands, help me do Your best."

B.J. Smith: Class of 1967.

In Retrospect

Now that your two weeks of orientation and initiation are coming to a close, I am happy to announce that you have only 1076 days of hard and never-ending study and work left. I realize that during this time you have some exciting and embarrassing experiences to come.

As I recall, I walked in quietly and calmly but very soon became a nervous wreck. I was registered, lost my life's savings in 5 minutes, was sentenced to three years of hard labor and escorted to my cell in North Hall.

Just as I was unpacking my B.V.D.'s I heard a tittering outside my door and in popped 16 girls! Can you imagine their first impression of me?

Next came the physicals. As I was quietly stealing down the hall with my little bottle in hand I was met by 4 instructors, 5 doctors, and 16 females! 'Twas then that I wished I'd joined the army. In X-ray I felt cheated because the girls had little white smocks and I didn't. As I silently watched them take monocytes, leucocytes, lymphocytes, phagocytes, eosinophils, basophils, and erythrocytes from my frail, anemic body I wondered what I would do if my serology test came out positive.

Although I've tried to forget, I vividly remember my first day on the floor. I walked up to Men's Medicine and made my first bed, which took no less than 45 minutes. I hope your progress will at least be equal to mine for it now only takes me 44 1/2 minutes. For some reason I still haven't been checked off on that procedure.

The prime rule on the floor is always to call personnel by their last name. However, there is one exception, - "Hey you!" This can be used in a dire emergency, such as when a doctor walks off with the chart you want.

You've, no doubt, noticed that I've said nothing about the patients. Unfortunately I haven't been checked off on that either.

As a Junior, with many hours of experience behind me and knowledge beyond human belief, I wish to leave this thought with you, "Life here is like a beaver colony--one dam thing after another."

A greeting to Freshmen from Dennis Bailey, Class of 1968

The Pulse

The pulse is the melody of life and changes frequently. It begins at birth with a quick excited beat and ends at death with a slowed acceptance or desperate resistance. It reflects the inner conflicts and trials and joys of an individual just as a piece of music reveals the introspection and self expression of the composer.

Dennis Bailey, 1967
